CABBAGE.

My CABBAGE SEED is grown mainly on LONG ISLAND by experienced growers, especially for me, is carefully rogued, and adapted to the most critical MARKET GARDENER'S trade. I also offer of some varieties seed grown abroad from my very best STOCK SEED, and being but one remove therefrom in the hands of careful growers should for ordinary purposes be equal to Long Island seed.

This step I have taken to guard against disastrous short crops which of late years have been the rule in this country. Unless otherwise specified orders will be filled from Long Island seed only. The foreign grown varieties in this list are preceded by * and the price is much lower than the American.

† EXTRA EARLY EUREKA—The earliest flat headed variety. Originated by me—a cross of EARLY JERSEY WAKEFIELD and HENDERSON'S SUCCESSION—as early as the first—shape and style of the second, although not as large—as solid as DANISH BALL HEAD—suited also for second early or summer where a medium sized head will answer. Has been sent out and extensively advertised as MAULE'S FIRST EARLY

CAULIFLOWER.

This is the most uncertain and treacherous vegetable grown, and without the best of seed there is no chance of a crop. Here on Long Island we have a section which seems peculiarly adapted to Cauliflower Culture—where they grow and thrive as readily as Cabbage. Owing to the ravages of the root maggot our people pay but little attention to EARLY CAULIFLOWER but in the fall hundreds of thousands of barrels are marketed—and during October and November special Cauliflower trains are run to New York daily. We have had every advantage in testing varieties and long ago discarded all but the Erfurt type of which there are several strains, and of which the so called EARLIES are all adapted for fall culture. The AMERICAN STRAINS are becoming more and more popular and being acclimated, succeed in many localities where imported stocks fail. Liberal applications of Nitrate of Soda and Kainit in Cauliflower culture are of great service.
